

February 10, 2005 at the age of 79. Lewis's life long dedication to education and community service will forever remind us of the importance of kindness, dedication and outstanding civic leadership.

Born in Palo Alto, California, Lewis completed his undergraduate and law degree from Stanford University. After serving in the Army Air Corps, he partnered with his mentor, J. Hampton Hoge, and established the Hoge and Fenton Law Firm in Monterey, California. After the firm expanded, Lewis remained counsel to two firms, Fenton & Keller in Monterey and Hoge, Fenton, Jones and Appel in San Jose.

Lewis's keen interest in professional and community activities are extensive and reveal a lifetime of dedication to his career and the improvement of a long list of community organizations. In 1963 he was the president of the Monterey County Bar Association and one of the top civil litigators on the Central Coast. Amongst his many awards he was listed in both Who's Who in America and the "Best Lawyers in America". Throughout his life, Lewis showed enduring commitment to teaching law. He was a faculty member at the Hastings College of Law and the Stanford Law School.

Lewis's civic duties also made a significant impact on the Monterey community. In the Community Foundation of Monterey County, he was the President of the Board of Governors. A board member of many organizations, Lewis made a pioneering contribution to the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was also a founding board member of the Monterey Bay Aquarium and a founding board member of the Board of Trustees for the York School, where he devoted 50 years of extensive involvement.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to remember Lewis for his honorable career and his contribution to our society. Lewis consistently went above and beyond the roles bestowed upon him, and has left a legacy of leadership and inspiration. Our thoughts go out to his family. While he will be sorely missed, his life will continue to inspire those he touched.

FOSTER CARE MENTORING ACT OF 2005

HON. JUANITA MILLENDER-McDONALD

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 8, 2005

Ms. MILLENDER-McDONALD. Mr. Speaker, tonight I'd like to talk about legislation that I recently introduced—The Foster Care Mentoring Act of 2005 (HR 822).

Adopting a child is a life long responsibility, but let me be frank, the way we care for our children, especially children in foster care is a direct reflection of who we are as a society.

The Administration has boldly stated that they will "Leave No Child Behind." I want to take them up on this pronouncement and extend this idea to the 523,000 children who are in foster care programs throughout this country.

These children cannot be left behind and must be given every opportunity to succeed.

The Foster Care Mentoring Act of 2005, will support the establishment, expansion and operation of programs using a network of public and private community entities to provide mentoring for children in foster care.

Specifically The Foster Care Mentoring Act of 2005, does the following:

Provides $15 million in grants to States to develop or expand statewide academic mentoring programs for children in foster care.

Authorizes States to use this funding to help recruit, support and train volunteers to serve as a foster youth's academic and personal advisers.

Authorizes $4 million to fund a national coordination and media campaign aimed at raising public awareness of the need to get involved in the life of a child waiting for foster care placement.

Engages college and graduate students by making them eligible to have their student loans discharged up to $2,000 for every 200 hours they serve as mentors to children living in foster care. A total of $20,000 in student loans incurred by participating college or graduate students would qualify for forgiveness.

My legislation is a good first step in approaching how we can better transition children into loving, supportive homes. But we must do more.

As I stated earlier, there are over 523,000 children in foster care. One in three of these children has been in care for over 5 years. Of the 25,000 children who leave the foster care system each year, they do so without ever having the promise of a permanent family fulfilled.

This is shameful! We must do better. Children in this country need to have a stable adult they can rely on and turn to for support while growing up. Mentoring is an excellent way to meet some of these children most basic needs.

The life experiences of children in foster care put them in a precarious and vulnerable situation. Children in foster care are more susceptible to; drug addiction, depression, delinquency, and pregnancy.

What's more, the constant turnover in placements for children in foster care makes it difficult for these young people to succeed in school.

Mentoring can make a difference in the life of young people in foster care and provide a lifeline to academic success and better life skills.

Traditional mentoring programs often do not include the type of training and recruitment necessary to equip mentors with the tools they need to most effectively serve the needs of these young people. Those that do yield amazing results:

Current statistics show that for young people who are mentored; 45 percent are less likely to begin using illicit drugs; 59 percent do better academically, and 73 percent set and attain higher life achievement goals.

The need for mentors for children in foster care is clear, however, few states have programs aimed at serving the special needs of this vulnerable population. I ask my colleagues to support H.R. 822 'The Foster Care Mentoring Act of 2005.'
